HULA IN CHEYENNE

"Five musical Hawaiians" closed an engagement at Cheyenne, Wyoming, on June 11, and the following excerpts from a reader in the Tribune of that city indicate their success:

"The five musical Hawaiians have proven big favorites in Cheyenne, as they have in all the large cities of the United States. Each performance they answer to scores numberless, until for lack of breath they are compelled to retire. Each number is a gem in itself.

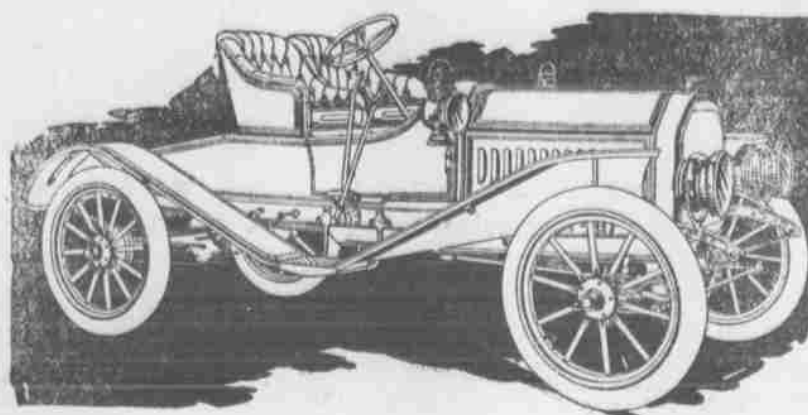

"To miss them in their act is to miss one of the grandest stage settings of a moonlight scene in Honolulu with the Diamond mountain scenery showing up in the distance.

"The native hula dance is bewitching, graceful and once seen will never be forgotten."

CABINET FORECAST

MEYER AND GARFIELD PROBABLY THE ONLY DEPARTMENT CHIEFS TO BE REAPPOINTED.

(Star Mail Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Few of the members of President Roosevelt's cabinet will be retained as advisers to Taft, when he moves into the White House. The new administration will start with a practically new cabinet. There will be new heads of the State Department, Treasury Department, War Department, Department of Justice, Navy Department, Agricultural Department and Department of Commerce and Labor. Postmaster General Meyer will be a member of Taft's cabinet, if he cares to, though he may not remain in the Post Office Department, and Secretary Garfield can continue in his present office, if it so pleases him. But with these two exceptions, there will be a new deal all around.

There is one exception that should be made in the case of the War Department. Secretary Taft is to retire from that office on July first when he will be succeeded by Luke E. Wright. As Wright was chosen on recommendation of Secretary Taft it is certain he will remain in the new cabinet, thought at the present time he is not a member of the cabinet, and therefore the War Department is listed among those where changes will occur.

ROOT FOR BENCH.

Were it not for poor health, Secretary Root would probably continue as Secretary of State. Mr. Taft would be greatly pleased if Root would remain, and will tender him the office, so that he may accept or refuse it. But the duties of Secretary of State are quite heavy, particularly when the occupant of the office is extremely conscientious, as Mr. Root has been, and the tax is more than he cares to bear. Mr. Root's friends say he would accept appointment in Taft's cabinet if he thought his health would permit him to serve the full four years, but he does not care to serve there for only a part of the administration. Moreover, there is prospect that there may be a vacancy in the Chief Justiceship of the United States Supreme Court during the next administration, and if that should occur, Root is slated for the vacancy. The duties of Chief Justice are far less trying than the duties of Secretary of State, and it is thought Mr. Root could do the entire without detriment to his health. Secretary Root will be 63 years old when the new administration opens, and would have but a short time to serve as Chief Justice, before being retired.

STRAUS READY TO RETIRE.

It is understood to be the desire of Secretary Straus to relinquish the duties of Secretary of Commerce and Labor at the close of the present administration. Mr. Straus took this office at great financial loss, because he was desirous of seeing the immigration service placed on a higher plane, with more efficient administration. Ever since he entered the cabinet, Secretary Straus has given his best attention to the immigration service, and has seen inaugurated many of the reforms he deemed so essential. Having accomplished this much, it is reported that he is now ready to retire—that is, when the Roosevelt administration retires.

MEYER FOR TREASURY.

If Postmaster General Meyer continued among the ardent admirers of George B. Cortelyou. He appreciates his good qualities, but he has always inclined to the opinion, very prevalent among public men, that Cortelyou has gotten beyond his depth, and is not by training equipped to preside over the federal treasury box. As a governmental administrative officer, Cortelyou is most efficient, but a Secretary of the Treasury, to properly fill his office, according to the ideas of Mr. Taft, should have had long training in matters of finance. This Mr. Cortelyou has not had. Moreover, Cortelyou, since he managed the republican campaign of 1904, has been on too intimate terms with J. Pierpont Morgan and other Wall street "captains of industry" to please Mr. Taft, who is anxious that his Secretary of the Treasury shall not afford the slightest opportunity for setting up the cry that he manipulates the Treasury Department at the dictation of Wall street. Therefore, Mr. Cortelyou will not be a member of the new cabinet.

As stated above, General Luke E. Wright, who becomes Secretary of War on July 1, having been chosen for that office by Secretary Taft, will continue as Secretary of War in the new cabinet.

WILSON'S FINE CAREER.
Since the Department of Agriculture was formed, it never had a Secretary as practical and as efficient as James Wilson of Iowa. True, Secretary Wilson has made mistakes, but who would not in a record-breaking cabinet term of twelve years, stretching over three full administrations? Wilson's few mistakes will be forgotten when his many beneficial accomplishments are remembered. Wilson succeeded, primarily because he had had a farmer's training and "knew the business."

Moreover, he was a practical man—not a theorist. He knew what the farmers needed and he undertook to supply their wants. It would take many a thousand words to sum up the good work that has been done by the Department of Agriculture since Wilson came to its head. Having broken all previous cabinet records, and being conscious of a long record of work well done, Mr. Wilson will retire voluntarily at the close of the Roosevelt administration. His successor will have great difficulty in equalling the success of "Tama Jim."

STRAUS READY TO RETIRE.

It is understood to be the desire of Secretary Straus to relinquish the duties of Secretary of Commerce and Labor at the close of the present administration. Mr. Straus took this office at great financial loss, because he was desirous of seeing the immigration service placed on a higher plane, with more efficient administration. Ever since he entered the cabinet, Secretary Straus has given his best attention to the immigration service, and has seen inaugurated many of the reforms he deemed so essential. Having accomplished this much, it is reported that he is now ready to retire—that is, when the Roosevelt administration retires.

MEYER FOR TREASURY.

If Postmaster General Meyer consents to remain in the cabinet he is very likely to be promoted to the Treasury Department, to succeed Cortelyou. Meyer and Taft are very good friends, and the future President is fully aware of the abilities of the Postmaster General. There is only one thing that would keep Meyer in the Post Office Department. He is the foremost advocate of a parcels post law and postal savings bank law, and if he believed by remaining in his present position he could further these two pieces of legislation he would put aside personal ambition which might carry him higher and stay where he is.

GARFIELD IS SOLID.

One of Secretary Taft's most ardent supporters in Ohio is Secretary Garfield of the Interior Department. Since he succeeded Hitchcock, Mr. Garfield has acquired a very comprehensive idea of the work of the Interior Department, having personally studied the work on the ground where it originates. He is an intense man, and now that he is thoroughly interested, it is quite likely he would desire to continue in his present position. If he wants to stay he can. His wish is law in that matter.

NO REMOVALS.

The changes to be made at the beginning of the new administration will not be in the nature of removals of present officials and the appointment of substitutes. The terms of all cabinet officers will expire on March 4, 1909, and there being an entirely new administration the new president will have the unhampered right to appoint as cabinet officers such men as he chooses. The fact that a man is a member of Roosevelt's cabinet gives him no claim to a reappointment, merely because Roosevelt favors Taft. When he goes into the White House, Taft will have the same liberty in the selection of cabinet officers as would belong to Roosevelt's bitterest enemy, or to a democratic president. Taft is not under obligations to any member of the present cabinet save Garfield for his nomination; all will support him at the election because he is the party's choice. Being under no obligation to any save one, Taft can very properly pick new material for his advisory board. But it is not likely the new cabinet will be constructed until after the election in November.

PULL AT MIDWAY TOMORROW NIGHT

There will be immense excitement at the Hawaiian Midway tomorrow evening and the entrances on both Alakea and Richards streets, below Queen will be chock-a-block with folks getting to see the great tug-of-war between the O. R. & L. team and the Japanese team, and between the Honolulu and the Poolas. Grace, of the O. R. & L. Co., has been coaching powerful negroes who will put their weight against the strongest team of Japanese ever gotten together. Mizuka, champion wrestler, is the anchor-man for the Japs and all are chosen for strength and endurance. They are in to win.

The second tug tomorrow evening is between the Honolulu and the Poola teams. The Honolulu are picked from the former Roads and Bridges men who won many contests. They are practicing daily on their own platform at the Government stables. They, too, are out to win. Than the Poolas, stewards, there are no stronger men in the Islands, and they do say there are none who can beat them.

On Monday evening next the Portuguese team will tussle with the Aloha-Americans and the Hawaiians will pull against the Hualae. Joe Luiz captain the Portuguese, who are practicing on Punchbowl and Harry Klemme captain the Aloha-Americans who are being coached by A. McDuffie, who pulled in many winning contests in San Francisco. They are the heaviest-pulling white men available, being composed of men from Fort Shafter, the Marines and the pick of Honolulu townsmen.

The Hawaiians are old champions and have not been defeated in five years. They used to be the Pacific Hardware, Captain Charles Costa is in charge and George Harris is coaching. The Red Shirt Brigade men compose the Hualae team—the men who made such an impression in the line of march at Prince David's funeral.

The Midway people have increased the seating rooms to accommodate the large crowds tomorrow evening, for tug-of-war has the town enthusiastic.

Jack Kalakole, says Sheriff Iaukea, will be chief of detectives, succeeding Taylor whose resignation takes effect July 15.
